The American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular.

PUBLICATION OFFICE, 28 ELM STREET (NEAR DUANE), NEW YORK.

Entered at the Post-Office at New York, N. Y., as second-class matter.

VOL. XLII., No. 14.

NEW YORK, October 1, 1892.

WHOLE No. 1079.

D. Appleton & Co.'s New Books

Man and the Glacial Period.

By G. FREDERICK WRIGHT, D.D., LL.D., Professor in Oberlin College; author of "The Ice Age in North America," "Logic of Christian Evidences," etc. No. 69, International Scientific Series. With numerous illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

Of Prof. Wright's "Ice Age in North America" the Independent says: "The author has seen with his own eyes the most important phenomena of the Ice age on this continent from Maine to Alaska. In the work itself, elementary description is combined with a broad, scientific and philosophic method, without abandoning for a moment the purely scientific character. Prof. Wright has contrived to give the whole a philosophical direction which lends interest and inspiration to it."

NEW EDITION OF

Fragments of Science.

By JOHN TYNDALL, F.R.S., author of "Sound," "Heat as a Mode of Motion," "New Fragments," etc. New revised and enlarged edition. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, $4.00.

The first edition of Professor Tyndall's "Fragments of Science" was published some twenty years ago as a single volume, which was made up of a score or more of his detached essays, addresses and reviews. The book was afterward revised, some of the papers recast and from time to time new ones added until, the size of the work becoming somewhat unwieldy, the present two-volume edition was decided upon. This contains fifteen additional papers, and represents the author's latest changes and revisions. The volumes are uniform with "New Fragments," recently issued, and the three together include all the occasional writings which their author has decided to preserve in permanent form.

The Moral Instruction of Children.

By FELIX ADLER. A new volume in the International Education Series. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This book contains the lectures delivered by Dr. Adler in the School of Applied Ethics, during its first session in 1891, at Plymouth, Mass. A few of the lectures have been condensed, but most of them are published substantially as delivered.

In Old St. Stephen's.

By JEANIE DRAKE. No. 102, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.

The author presents a fascinating sketch of the life of an old family in South Carolina in the early part of the century. The story is told forcibly and vividly, and holds the reader's attention and sympathy.

A new novel by the author of "Stephen Ellicott's Daughter."

Passing the Love of Women.

By Mrs. J. H. NEEDLE, author of "Stephen Ellicott's Daughter," "The Story of Philip Methuen," etc. No. 101, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cts.; cloth, $1.

Of "Stephen Ellicott's Daughter," Hon. W. E. Gladstone says: "I am desirous to bear my humble testimony to the great ability and high aim of the work." Archdeacon Farrar says: "I find it exceedingly interesting, and like its high tone." The London Spectator says: "From first to last an exceptionally strong and beautiful story."

"GOOD BOOKS FOR YOUNG READERS" SERIES.

The Battle of New York.

By WILLIAM O. STODDARD, author of "Little Smoke," "Crowded out o' Crofield," etc. With 11 illustrations and colored frontispiece. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This popular author presents an extraordinary page of our history. He tells what two boys saw and experienced during the great draft riots in New York. Side by side with these scenes there are some vivid descriptions of a boy's adventures at the battle of Gettysburg.

Englishman's Haven.

By W. J. GORDON, author of "The Captain-General," etc. With 8 full-page illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The romantic story of a boy's adventures among the Indians and French of Cape Breton, and his exploits when the Americans, and afterward the English, captured the stronghold of Louisbourg.

D. APPLETON & CO., 1, 3 and 5 Bond Street, New York.

NOTES IN SEASON.

BANGS & Co.'s regular Fall Parcel Sale will take place on October 25 and following days. Invoices should be sent in no later than the 12th inst.

"HOW TO MANAGE BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS" and "The Working Man's Way to Wealth," by Edmund Wrigley, formerly published by James K. Senior, are now published by J. B. Lippincott Company.

E. STEIGER & Co. have just issued a remarkably complete and cheap "Dictionary of the English and German Languages," by Friederich Koehler, entirely remodelled and enlarged by Prof. Hermann Lambeck. The volume is a small quarto of 1264 pages, bound in half leather, and retails at $2.60.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will have ready October 8 "Giovanni and the Other," a story of children who have made stories, by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, whose skill in drawing children's characters, pleasures and sorrows, needs no tribute of words after the recognition given in the overwhelming success of her "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "Sarah Crewe," etc.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on October 8 "Zachary Phips," a new historical novel by Edwin Lassetter Bynner; "Evangeline," beautifully bound and illustrated with the Darley designs; "Children's Rights," a book of kindergarten discussion and talks with mothers, by Kate Douglas Wiggin; "An American Missionary in Japan," by Dr. M. L. Gordon; "Little-Folk Lyrics," a collection of charming verses for children by Frank Dempster Sherman; and new editions of Bynner's "Agnes Surriage" and "Begum's Daughter," and of S. Weir Mitchell's "Roland Blake," all of which have been mentioned in detail in the Fall Announcement Number of THE PUBLISHER'S WEEKLY. They report so large a demand for Charles Francis Adams' "Three Episodes of Massachusetts History," that its publication is postponed to October 8, when another edition will be ready.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just issued "Man and the Glacial Period," by G. Frederick Wright, author of "The Ice Age in North America," with an appendix on "Tertiary Man," by Professor Henry W. Haynes in their International Scientific Series, and "The Moral Instruction of Children," by Felix Adler; and "English Education in the Elementary and Secondary Schools," by Isaac Sharpless, President of Haverford College, Pa., in their International Educational Series. In their Town and Country Library they have ready "In Old St. Stephens," by Jeanie Drake, a tale of South Carolina in olden days; and will publish at once a novel by Miss Molly Elliot Seawell, entitled "The Berkeleys and Their Neighbors." Two new books for young people are also just out, "Englishman's Haven," by W. J. Gordon, and "The Battle of New York," by William O. Stoddard.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "London," by Walter Besant, who presents pictures of the City of London, instantaneous photographs, showing the streets, the buildings and the citizens at work and at play—above all, the citizens, with their daily life in the streets, in the shops, in the houses from the time directly following the Romans to the time of George Second, a work for which the author has browsed among many forgotten records, which is very fully illustrated; "Field-Farings," a vagrant chronicle of earth and sky, dedicated to Margaret L. Sangster, full of pretty thoughts suggested by nature in her changing seasons; "The Desire of Beauty," a discussion of aesthetic culture, by Theodore Child; "The West from a Car Window," a series of entertaining papers by Richard Harding Davis, who narrates his experiences in Texas and the mining regions of the Great Divide, and "A Little Swiss Sojourn," one of W. D. Howells' dainty bits of description added to the pretty Black and White Series.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Abbott, C. C., M.D. Recent archaeological explorations in the valley of the Delaware. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. c. 2+30 p. il. O. (Univ. of Pa. ser. in philology, literature and archaeology, v. 2, no. 1.) bds., 75 c.

Allen, Willis Boyd. Gulf and glacier; or, the Percivals in Alaska. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. 2-243 p. il. D. (Pine-cone ser., no. 6.) cl., $1.

The seven weeks' tour described under this title comprised a journey across the continent from sea to sea, a voyage along the coast of Alaska, and the return trip across the continent by way of Yellowstone Park. The "Percivals" are old friends who have figured in all the previous volumes of this series. Pet Sibley and Fred Seacombe join them in this excursion. The fun is fresh and plentiful, and the descriptions the records of an actual journey.

Argles, Mrs. Marg., ["The Duchess," pseud., now Mrs. Hungerford.] A life's remorse. Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., [1892.] 288 p. il. D. (Dearborn ser., no. 75.) pap., 25 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Dec. 14, 1889, [933.]

Argles, Mrs. Marg., ["The Duchess," pseud., now Mrs. Hungerford.] Nor wife, nor maid. N. Y., Hovendon Co., [1892.] c. '91. 3-386 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

English country life with its tennis parties, dances, musical evenings and long walks is pictured with skill and humor. The heroine comes of a family in which there have been clergymen of high degree for generations. Her love-story does not run smooth. The tale hinges on the English law that makes a child legitimate if parents are legally married just before its birth. Most innocently the leading characters suffer from unforeseen complications.

Ball, B. W. The Merrimack river; Hellenics and other poems; ed. with introd. by F. F. Ayer. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. c. '91. 41+426 p. D. cl., $2.

Benjamin West Ball was born in Concord, Mass., Jan. 27, 1823. He has long been a contributor to periodical literature of prose articles and poems. His article entitled "Woman's rights in ancient Athens," published in the Atlantic Monthly for March, 1871, attracted wide attention. This is the first complete edition published of his poetical writings.

Black, J. W. Maryland's attitude in the struggle for Canada. Balt., Md., The Johns Hopkins Press, 1892. 2-73 p. O. (Johns Hopkins Univ. studies, 10th ser., no. 7.) pap., 50 c.

A study of the attitude of Maryland in the French and Indian war. The author has aimed to present briefly the results of a study of the Sharpe correspondence and the proceedings of the Assembly during the years 1753-1761, for the purpose of throwing new light upon Maryland politics at that time.

Blackwood, Alicia, (Lady.) Little lives, and threads of gold to guide them. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1892. 7-344 p. il. D. cl., $1.

A supposed dream is the medium of presenting and illustrating for young readers some of the beautiful Bible precepts and promises. The story is in the style of the "Pilgrim's progress."

Bolton, Mrs. Sarah Knowles. Famous types of womanhood. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 4-350 p. pors. D. cl., $1.50.

In this, the latest addition to the already long list of Mrs. Bolton's "Famous" books, full and entertaining sketches are given of Queen Louise of Prussia, who was not only beautiful in person and in character, but was the inspirer of German unity; Madame Récamier, who stands forth as the best type of social elegance and dignity; Susannah Wesley, whose inspiration did so much toward establishing the world-wide work of Methodism; Harriet Martineau, whose career is an encouragement to all struggling women; Jenny Lind, the "Swedish Nightingale"; Dorothea Dix, whose reform of the treatment of the insane was almost a miracle; the three noble wives of the missionary Judson, and finally of Miss Amelia B. Edwards, who proved that a woman can win glory in a field usually arrogated wholly by men.

Brehat, Alfred de. Romance of Trouville: a novel; from the French, by Meta de Vere; il. by Wechsler. N. Y., Rob. Bonner's Sons, [1892.] c. 4-329 p. D. (Choice ser., no. 69.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A hurdle-race at Trouville introduces the characters, and is the cause of a duel between René Gavary, a Frenchman, and Manuel de Coblizo, a Portuguese. The sensational incidents that precede and follow this event make up a story of mystery and dramatic interest.

These letters written by Columbus to Ferdinand and Isabella, to Raphael Sanchez, Juana De La Torres and Luis De Santangel describing his different voyages of discovery, are offered by the editor as an antidote to the adverse views of the man advanced by some critics. They show, as nothing else can show, his thoughts, acts and desires, proving that he was brave and an advanced thinker.

Cook, Albert S., ed. The art of poetry: the poetical treatises of Horace, Vida and Boileau; with the translations by Howes, Pitt and Soame; ed. with introd. and notes by Albert S. Cook. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. c. 55+303 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The treatises mentioned in the title are given with the original text in Latin or French and in an English translation. They are preceded by illustrative comments from well-known literary critics and followed by copious notes.

Cooper, Mrs. Harriet C. Short studies in botany for children. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 4-194 p. por. il. D. cl., $1.

"Aunt Mary" is the central figure of a group of interesting nieces and nephews. It is in walks and talks with her that these short studies in botany are evolved. The style is bright and pleasing, and so simple and untechnical as to be easily understood. Children may gain from the volume information about the "rose family," the "composite family," the "grass family," the "pine family," "orchids," etc.

Corelli, Marie. Ardath: the story of a dead self. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] 7-565 p. D. (Belmore ser., no. 9.) pap., 50 c.

The story is founded upon four lines from the book of Esdras, in the Apocrypha, and it teaches that our present natures are but the reflex of ourselves as we were in a pre-existent state, and that according to our own will our lives are for good or for evil. A vision upon the "field which is called Ardath," stretching beyond the ruins of Babylon, reveals to the poet and seer, who is the hero of the tale, his dead self as it lived and sinned five thousand years before Christ. Through the stern lesson of this vision he realizes the immortal power of the soul, and by casting away selfish and earthly desires attains lasting happiness.

Curry, G. Merrill's English history for school and home use; ed. by W. J. Rolfe. N. Y., C. E. Merrill & Co., [1892.] c. 2-317 p. maps. D. cl., $1.

As the original edition of this work was written for "Juvenile Britons," there were many expressions and some allusions in it which would be inappropriate and occasionally unintelligible to children on this side of the ocean. For these reasons Mr. Rolfe, at the request of prominent educators who recognized the merits of the work, made the present revised edition, bringing the last chapter down to date. May be used as a text-book for young pupils, or as supplementary reading either in school or at home.

A historical tale which depicts with great vividness the heartless worldliness that prevailed in the French court during the reign of Charles IX., when Catherine de Médicis really governed king and nation. The heroine of the story, Antoinette de Bourlemont, is a young girl who, though brought up under the direction and influence of Catherine, is of true, loving and loyal spirit. So innocent is she of any guile that she never understands the true character of her royal friend until her eyes are opened by the massacre of St. Bartholomew.

Favorite rhymes and riddles. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1892. 255 p. il. D. (Favorite nursery lib.) cl., $1.

Favorite tales and stories. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1892. 255 p. il. D. (Favorite nursery lib.) cl., $1.

Two volumes bound in one, namely "Favorite tales for the nursery" and "Favorite stories for the nursery." The volume embraces eighteen of the familiar fairy tales such as "Puss in boots," "Cinderella," "Jack the giant-killer," "The forty thieves," etc. Profusely illustrated.

Findlater, Sarah L. The children's voyage to the Cape. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1892. 7-122 p. il. D. cl., 50 c.

The voyage of Jennie and Mollie Fanshawe to Cape Town and their novel mode of life in that place are the interesting features of a story of two helpful children.

Fouillée, Alfred. Education from a national standpoint; tr. and ed. with a preface by W. J. Greenstreet. [Also] A preface by W. T. Harris. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 21+332 p. D. (International education ser., no. 23.) cl., $1.50.

The present conflict in European schools as to which is the best education for the people—a literary or a scientific one—the two parties being called the "humanists" and the "realists"—is the basis of the suggestions of this volume. Mr. Fouillée, who represents the more advanced thought on the side of the humanists, takes a more restricted view of the problem of education and heredity than Guyau, the educational questions which he discusses being from the national standpoint and not from that of the individual. The work is divided into five books: 1, Education and selection from the national point of view; 2, Scientific humanities from the national standpoint; 3, Classical humanities from the national standpoint; 4, A "modern" education from the national standpoint; 5, Philosophy, ethics and social science from the national standpoint.

Fulton, Justin D., D.D. Charles H. Spurgeon our ally. Chic., H. J. Smith & Co., 1892. c. 3-436 p. por. il. D. cl., $1.

The chief aim of this sketch of Spurgeon's life is to show that he held to the dogma of "close communion."

Gerard, Morice. The Victoria cross; how it was won; how it was lost; how it came back again. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1892. 6-156 p. il. D. cl., 60 c.

Robert Wheatcroft, gunner in the British navy, won by bravery a Victoria cross. After this had been awarded, he went back to England to nurse a wound he had received in an encounter with Zulus. On his arrival there he loses, through a second act of bravery, his cherished cross. In the dramatic scene which follows this latter incident, Emma Forster and Robert are seen to advantage, and a Victoria cross is regained.

Green, Mrs. Evelyn Everett. The church and the king: a tale of England in the days of Henry VIII. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1892. 6-599 p. il. D. cl., $1.75.

The hero of the story is Guy, second son of Sir Ralph Falconer, a Papist supposed to be prime mover in the religious revolt against Henry VIII. The attack against Wierwold Hall and the conspiracy of Lord Obaldistone, of the opposition party, with Lady Falconer, bring into prominence the religious and political movement of men who fought for and of those who opposed the establishment of the Protestant Episcopal Church as the Church of England.

Green, Mrs. Evelyn Everett. In the wars of the roses: a story for the young. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1892. 7-236 p. il. D. cl., $1.

The chance resemblance of Prince Edward of Wales, son of Margaret of Anjou and Henry VI., to the son of a Staffordshire knight, leads to a case of mistaken identity, and causes Paul Bulkeley to substitute himself for the heir-apparent to the English throne. On this incident of England's history is founded a story which deals with events that succeed the restoration of Henry VI., and introduces the struggle of the House of York and Lancaster with the succession of Edward IV.

Green, Mrs. Evelyn Everett. The Lord of Dynevor: a tale of the time of Edward the first. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1892. 7-260 p. il. D. cl., $1.

This story of the four sons of Res Vychan is historically true, though a pretty romance is woven into the facts and there are minor fictitious details. The scene is laid alternately in Wales and England during the period when the Welsh made their last struggle against English conquest. Wendet, the young Welsh lord of Dynevor, his turbulent brothers, the young Prince Alphonso, Gertrude Cherleton, and the royal princesses, Eleanor and Joanna, are all very natural young people, whose adventures, friendships, quarrels and tribulations are told with spirit and verisimilitude.

Hector, Mrs. Annie F., ["Mrs. Alexander," pseud.] The snare of the fowler. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 5+349 p. D. cl., $1.

A young girl who believes herself as poor as she is friendless almost falls a victim to the intrigues of an unprincipled woman, an aunt by marriage, who offers her a home, and endeavors to force her into a marriage with her handsome but worthless son. The secret of the aunt's desire to unite the young people is the knowledge she and her son alone possess of facts in the girl's history regarding her claim upon a large estate. The plot is long and has many surprises. The story does not often stray away from London, the characters being taken from fashionable and middle-class English life.

The story of a young Briton during the reign of Nero. He takes a prominent part in the war against the Romans, is finally made a prisoner and carried to Rome, where he becomes a gladiator. The story is full of vivid pictures of savage Britain and cultured Roman life, of thrilling scenes in the arena and in the city during that interesting period, including a description of the burning of Rome.

Godfrey Bullen, the young hero suspected of Nihilism, is sent with convicts to Siberia. His final escape from prison-life after numerous exciting adventures affords material for a narrative of thrilling interest. The pictures of Siberian prison-life are realistic and read as if taken from life.

Henty, G. A. In Greek waters: a story of the Grecian war of independence (1821-1827); il. by W. S. Stacey. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 4-408 p. map, D. cl., $1 50.

The scenes of this story are laid in and near Greece during the Greek war for national independence. Horace Beveridge and his father, enthusiastic sympathizers with the Greeks, take an active part in their struggle against Turkish rule. They own a well-armed schooner in which they cruise for nearly two years, sharing in numerous fights and rescues on shore and on sea.

According to a superstition current in the Isle of Bute at the time of the story, King Somerled's sword was supposed to be endowed with supernatural powers, as it had dealt death to so many, hence was called the "thirsty sword." With this weapon Earl Kenric seeks to revenge the death of his father Hamish, former king of Bute, and to defend his territory against the invader, King Hakon of Norway.

South Africa at the time of one of the frequent native uprisings is the scene of a dramatic narrative of ghastly vengeance wreaked by a Kafir warrior upon an Englishman. There is a love-story woven in the plot, which terminates in orthodox fashion; but it hardly lightens the gloom cast by the rapidly succeeding scenes of savagery and by the horror of Hlangani's revenge.

Two cousins who only meet when nearing manhood are the leading characters. Gerald Yorke has lived his young life in Italy. He is imbued with a love of art, is a musical genius, and impetuous, imaginative and independent. At his mother's dying request he seeks her brother's home in England. Martin Cartwright is a prosperous tradesman living in a provincial town. He and his wife are strict Methodists, the wife, however, exceeding the husband in narrowness and bigotry. Here Gerald finds John, their only child, who is breaking his heart in the unsympathetic atmosphere. Gerald is a revelation to his cousin John, and from the moment of meeting the boys entertain for each other a deep and faithful friendship which receives no strain even when both unfortunately love the same woman.

The "mixed Pickles" which Mrs. Raymond has so entertainingly put up for the delectation of the young are a German family who bear the romantic name of Pickel, and who are brought by an easy-going, good-natured brother of their father to visit their American grandmother. Other grandchildren are domiciled in the roomy Quaker farmhouse, and the adventures of the various members of the household, especially of young Fritz Pickel, are a source of amazement, perplexity, amusement, and not seldom of righteous wrath to the maiden aunt, whom at the last the German uncle carries off in the regulation manner.

The Princess Marie Caroline of Naples became, upon her marriage with the Duke of Berry, the central figure of the French court during the reigns of both Louis XVIII. and Charles X. This volume, like the preceding ones of the series, while largely biographical, presents vivid pictures of the times. The chief events it chronicles are the marriage of Marie Caroline, the assassination of her husband the Duke of Berry, and the birth of her son, the Duke of Chambord, and the death of Louis XVIII., the old king having expired Sept. 12, 1824. The other two volumes of this group will deal with the Duchess of Berry and the court of Charles X., and the Duchess of Berry and the revolution of July, 1830.

Stredder, Eleanor. The merchant's children: a story for the young. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1892. 6-249 p. il. D. cl., 80 c.

The merchant is the resident agent of a large London tea-house, who lives with his family on the "English Concession," in Hankow, the great tea-market of China. His children, Greville and Cordelia, are wholesome little people, who adopt a castaway Chinese baby, are spectators of a riot against the "foreign devils," and are captured by river pirates, but who carry themselves pluckily through all their adventures. The story gives an interesting picture of life among the foreign residents and among the queer native population of the Celestial Kingdom.

Australia is again made the scene of a novel, by the author of "A Sydney Sovereign," "Uncle Piper of Piper's Hill," etc. Linda Robley is a wayward, beautiful girl, who has been educated in Paris, and has advanced ideas. She marries one man while loving his cousin; then learns to despise her husband on finding he is a coward. Under the influence of a third admirer, her sneers drive her husband to his death. Her remorse and expiation are deep and life-long.

More than ten years have gone by since the first volume—"Spring"—of this series was published. Since then we have had "Summer" and "Winter," the present volume completing the cycle of the seasons. As in the other volumes, it is the life out-doors that is recorded. Thoreau seldom wrote of his material affairs. The sunset, the landscape, the deeds of animals were the things that interested him. No detail of life under a New England's autumn sky was too small for him to notice.

Tucker, Mrs. Charlotte, [“A. L. O. E.” pseud.] The iron chain and the golden. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1892. 7-208 p. il. D. cl., $1.

By giving incidents in the lives of two Saxon priests of kinship, but of opposite views and character, with the action and some of the relative history of Anselm, former abbot of Bee, afterward Archbishop of Canterbury, the positions of two factions of the Church of Rome are defined, and an endeavor is made to show through contrast that superstition was the iron chain that imposed a celibate's life on the priest, and that love is the golden chain.

Tyndall, J. Fragments of science: a series of detached essays, addresses and reviews. [New rev. and enl. ed.] N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 2 v. 6+452; 3+452 p. D. cl., $4.

The first edition of Prof. Tyndall's "Fragments of Science" was published some twenty years ago as a single volume, which was made up of a score or more of his detached essays, addresses and reviews. The book was afterward revised, some of the papers recast, and from time to time new ones added, until the size of the work becoming somewhat unwieldy, the present two-volume edition was decided upon. This contains fifteen additional papers, and represents the author's latest changes and revisions. Uniform with "New fragments" recently issued, the three volumes together including all the occasional writings which their author has decided to preserve in permanent form.

A literary résumé of the myths of Colorado, pointing out the poetry and strange romance they testify to in a now extinct nation.

Wilder, Mrs. C. F. Polly Button's New Year. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 9+ 137 p. S. cl., 75 c.

Polly Button is a humble member of the church, but to her it suddenly occurs that she as well as the minister has a duty in the world to perform. She begins a new year with a sense of her responsibility and with a sincere desire to change her life. Thus in her little way she becomes a genuine power in the community, an example to those about her in wealth and position, and a help to the young with whom she comes into contact. Her quaint soliloquies and comments are piquant and bright.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 1, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertisement pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

THE IMPORTATION OF RE-BOUND BOOKS.

A REVIEW OF THE CASE OF THE BOSTON BOOK CO. VS. COLLECTOR OF BOSTON.

A DECISION of great importance not only to the book trade, importers or dealers in second-hand books, but also to book-collectors and librarians, is that recently handed down by Judge Putnam in the case of the Boston Book Company against the Collector of Customs of Boston. Although we are obliged to present the facts later than we had hoped, we make no apology, in view of the importance of the subject, for spreading so fully before our readers the details of the case at this time:

The Boston Book Co. ordered from London a second-hand set of Howell's State Trials, 34 vols. (which was published in successive volumes between the years 1809 and 1828), believing that it could be admitted free of duty.

On arrival of the set (per S.S. Scythia, April 13, 1891), the Appraiser at the Port of Boston found that, while printed more than twenty years ago, it had evidently been recently re-bound; and the Collector therefore assessed upon it (April 23) a duty of 25% upon the value (£16.10s.) under the provision of the present tariff, which requires a book to have been "printed and bound" more than twenty years, to be admitted free. This duty, amounting to $20.50, the Boston Book Co. paid under protest on April 29, 1891, and the same day entered an appeal to the Board of U. S. General Appraisers against the imposition of this duty. On May 29, 1891, the Board of U. S. General Appraisers sustained the decision of the Collector of the Port of Boston, and so notified the appellants.

Although not stated in their notification, it is presumed that the Board of General Appraisers, in deciding this case only followed the precedent they had established in their decision (G. A. 426) of March 16, 1891, in a similar case, which reads as follows:

(G. A. 426.)

FREE ENTRY OF BOOKS PRINTED AND BOUND MORE THAN TWENTY YEARS.

OFFICE OF THE U. S. GENERAL APPRAISERS, }
NEW YORK, MARCH 16, 1891. {

To the Collector of Customs, New York.

SIR: We are in receipt of your letter of the 11th ultimo, submitting the protests of Mr. W. E. Benjamin (6105 a) and Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Co. (6106 a), from assessment of duty at the rate of 25% ad valorem on certain books, on the ground that the books were printed more than twenty years ago.

In addition to the special report of the appraisers we had a hearing at which the appellants appeared.

It was admitted that the books had been printed more than twenty years, and that they had been recently re-bound. The appellants contended that the books having been printed and once bound more than twenty years since, were brought within the provisions of the free list of the existing law, paragraph 512, and could not afterwards be excluded by a re-binding, which is in the nature of repairs. It will not be denied that the term "binding" includes re-binding, and it will be seen from the whole paragraph that Congress intended that such books only should be entitled to free entry as are substantially in the same condition they were twenty years prior to importation.

The tariff act of 1883 contained in the free list paragraph No. 658, which covered this subject by these words: "Books . . . which shall have been printed and manufactured more than twenty years at the date of importation."

The word "bound" is new matter added by the act of October 1, 1890, to previous legislation, and we cannot give effect to this additional language unless we find that Congress meant to embrace by it the entire condition in which books should be admitted to free entry.

The appellants made an effort to pay duty on the cost of re-binding, which they had ascertained, but no previous provision exists therefor.

We hold, therefore, that books entitled to free entry must be both printed and bound more than twenty years prior to importation, and that such binding includes re-binding where the same is entire, as in the present cases.

Your assessment of duty in each of these cases is sustained.

The Boston Book Co. then appealed to the Circuit Court of the United States from this decision of the Board of General Appraisers, claiming that the view of the existing law taken by that board was incorrect, because there was a simpler and more natural interpretation of the change in the law, and because the interpretation of the board, besides being strained and unnatural, would introduce uncertainty and confusion into the importation of old books; would introduce an element of uncertainty into the process of appraisal; would practically repeal the old law in its application to a large class of importations, and would effect these changes, not by plain enactment, but by implication and strained construction only.

Prior to the Act of 1890 the free list of the tariff law contained the following clause:

"Books, engravings, bound or unbound, etchings, maps and charts, which shall have been printed and manufactured more than twenty years at the date of importation."

In the act of 1890, now in force, this paragraph has been amended so as to read thus:

"Books, engravings, photographs, bound or unbound, etchings, maps and charts, which shall have been printed and bound or manufactured more than twenty years at the date of importation."

The amendment in the law which affects the present case consists in the change of the words "printed and manufactured" to "printed and bound or manufactured;" and the application consists in the construction of the words "and bound" as used in this connection.

The Board of General Appraisers held that the introduction of these words "and bound" removed from the free list, and rendered dutiable, any book which had been originally bound, or had been re-bound, within twenty years. The Boston Book Co. contended that these words only covered the case of original binding, and left repaired or re-bound books as they were before, free of duty.

On the one hand the appellants suggested that there was a simpler and more natural construction of the change in the law than that set forth by the Board of General Appraisers.

Under the old law, question arose as to how far the phrase "printed and manufactured" applied to editions, or parts of editions, of books which had been printed more than twenty years at the time of importation, but had never been bound, and were imported "in sheets."

The Treasury Department, in Decision 3716, rendered Sept. 3, 1878, held that such books, not having been bound, were not "manufactured," according to the intent of the law, and were therefore dutiable.

Again in Decision 7338, rendered Jan. 29, 1886, the Department held that "unbound printed sheets were not books printed and manufactured within the meaning of the provision of the free list." (See 18 op. Att.-Gen. 461, for final decision.)

Thus the phrase of the old law, "printed and manufactured," required from the Treasury Department the explanation that binding was a necessary part of the complete manufacture of a book.

If the recent changes in the law are viewed in the light of this ambiguity, and the consequent decisions of the Treasury Department, it seems plain that the substitution of the words "printed and bound or manufactured," for the former phrase "printed and manufactured," are only intended to render the law precise on this mooted point, and to embody definitely in the law the prior decisions of the Treasury Department. As the law now stands, the words "printed and bound" apply to books, and the words "or manufactured" cover engravings, photographs, etchings, maps and charts.

This view of the law is taken in the Seventh edition of Morgan's Digest of the U. S. Tariff and Customs Laws (1891), a work every edition of which "the U. S. Treasury Department has supplied to the Custom-Houses of the United States for the past twenty years." On page 340 of this work the editor, in a note to the provision of the free list now under discussion, says:

"Most of the decisions under the former tariff act turned upon the point whether certain unbound books, pamphlets, etc., which had been printed more than twenty years were entitled to free entry. The present law would seem to clear away the difficulty on that point by the provision, 'books . . . which have been printed and bound or manufactured.'"

It may be added that the same view was taken by the Collector of the Port of Boston when this question was first brought up under the operations of the present tariff acts; and that he only imposed the 25 per cent. duty in such cases after the Board of U. S. General Appraisers had rendered their decision of March 16, 1891.

By the adoption of this construction the change in phraseology is clearly accounted for, the decisions of the Treasury Department are confirmed, and no radical changes in law or custom are effected by implication or indirection.

In the first place, the modification in the free list, as interpreted by the general appraisers, renders it impossible for the citizen or dealer who orders old books from foreign catalogues to know whether they will be dutiable or free of duty, and consequently to reckon within 25 per cent. of the cost. Printed catalogues usually give the date of publication, which may be presumed to be the date of original binding, but no information as to the date of re-binding can be obtained from these catalogues or otherwise. Under the old law, the importer could reckon from the catalogue, or from the written offer of the foreign bookseller, just what he would have to pay for any book or set of books. Under the new law, if this interpretation is allowed to stand, the importer can never know what the cost of an old book is to be, until it has come to the United States Custom-House and the Appraiser has made up his mind whether the binding is more or less than twenty years old. Doubt and uncertainty are thus introduced into the business of importation by the General Appraisers' interpretation of the present law.

In the second place, the General Appraisers' interpretation introduces a new element of uncertainty into the process of appraisal, renders the work of the local appraiser much more difficult, and imposes on him the responsibility of judging—or rather of guessing—how old the binding of each old book may be.

Under the law as it formerly stood, the appraiser found little or no difficulty in separating the dutiable from the non-dutiable books. The dates on the title-pages settled the matter, except in rare cases of fraud. But under the present law, as interpreted by the general appraisers, every second-hand book must be scrutinized by the appraiser—not only for the date of publication, but also to see whether it has been re-bound within twenty years. Here he will have no sure guide for judging between bindings ten, or twenty, or thirty years old. A binding thirty years old, but well preserved, often looks fresher than another ten years old which has been exposed to dampness, excessive heat, or hard usage. He must rely on his own unassisted judgment, for no one can help him. The importer, not having seen the books, cannot say when they were last bound. The foreign bookseller from whom they were bought, having usually got them at auction or from former owners, cannot give accurate information. No one can definitely tell when such second-hand books were bound, except the binder who bound them and the owner who had them bound. Unless the re-binding has just been done—and it will be practically impossible to prove when it was done—the question whether each book or set shall pay duty or shall come in free will rest upon the judgment of the appraiser in each case, without possibility of definite confirmation or proof. Thus this interpretation of the present law introduces uncertainty into the appraisal, and forces the appraiser to decide, by impression or guess-work, the age of bindings on which expert binders could rarely agree.

In the third place, the General Appraiser's interpretation of the law practically repeals and changes the former law in its application to a large class of importations, not by clear enactment but by a forced or strained construction.

Very many books in constant use are bound and re-bound as occasion requires. Law-books, for instance, require frequent re-binding. Under the former law, old books thus rebound were admitted free of duty. Under the General Appraisers' interpretation of the present law, any book or set of books which has been rebound within twenty years, either in fact or in the opinion of the appraisers, becomes dutiable at the rate of 25 per cent. This effects a considerable change of values. A good copy of the first folio edition of Shakespeare, for instance, may be worth three thousand dollars. Under the old law, and under a fair construction of the present law, it would be admitted free of duty. But under the General Appraisers' decision—if the local appraiser thinks that the folio has been rebound within twenty years—a duty of twenty-five per cent. must be levied, not on the value of the binding, which is supposed to be recent, but upon the full value of the old volume—a duty of $750—to be added because the volume has been kept in good repair. This is an extreme case, but it is a fair illustration of the change in the law brought about by the General Appraisers' decision. So large a class of importations may be affected by this decision—law-books, sets of periodicals, publications and society proceedings—books valuable for their age and so on, that it is not too much to say that the insertion of the words "and bound," under this interpretation, partially repeals the former law, by transferring from the free list to the dutiable list all these old books so long considered to be properly free of duty.

And finally this great change is effected, not by plain and explicit enactment, but by implication and construction. If it had been intended to make new bindings on old books dutiable, as a measure of protection to American bookbinders—the law could have been definitely amended in so many words. If it had been intended to make this amendment more effective by adding, as a punitive measure, that old books thus re-bound should not only pay duty on the cost of re-binding, but should also pay duty on the full cost of the books themselves—this radical change in the law could and ought to have been expressed so clearly and unequivocally that there should be no doubt what was intended. A few words would have sufficed for this purpose, and it seems impossible that the framers of the law could have tried to compress its expression into the two words "and bound."

Nor is it correct to assume, as the General Appraisers have done, in their decision, that the word "binding," technically considered, includes re-binding. It is by no means the same process. Beginning with the sheets of a book as they come from the press, the process of binding includes:

- (1.) Folding of each sheet into a "signature;"
- (2.) Placing the signatures in order;
- (3.) Stitching or sewing together the backs of the signatures preparatory to fastening on the cover; (4.) Attaching the cover, of boards, cloth, sheep or other material, which has been prepared by separate processes.

In re-binding the first three steps of binding are not repeated, unless the book is so shaken as to require re-sewing; but a new cover or the old cover repaired, is attached to the already folded, collated and stitched body of the book. This process is so distinct from original binding, that it is a very strained construction of the word "bound" in this connection, to hold that it also means "re-bound." The decision of the Board of General Appraisers apparently limits this construction to cases where the re-binding is entire; but why? If the term binding includes re-binding, in this context, why does it not also include partial re-binding? There are various grades of re-binding—from the "re-backing" of a single volume to the entire re-binding of a full set with new material. Why stop arbitrarily at the latter, and not include also the other stages? Does not this very limitation of the decision show what numerous and puzzling questions of fact the General Appraisers' construction of the words "and bound" opens up, and what vistas of uncertainty and dispute will follow its adoption? Is it possible that so strained an interpretation, bringing in its train so many uncertainties, both of law and of fact, can prevail against the natural and satisfactory interpretation, which simply changes a previous law to meet an interpretation given by the Attorney-General?

The Court seemed to take this view of the matter, as the following abstract of Judge Putnam's decision will show:

"The Treasury Department twice ruled—the last time January 29, 1886—that under the tariff act of 1833 books printed more than twenty years, but imported in sheets, were not entitled to free entry. The Attorney-General, however, advised otherwise September 16, 1886 (18 Op. Attys.-Gen., 461). He reached this conclusion by making 'bound or unbound' relate to the preceding word 'books.' It is my belief that the change in phraseology which appears in the act of October 1, 1890, par. 512, so far as it reaches the present case, should be construed as intended to remove this doubt, and to make certain that the general policy concerning this subject-matter was not extended as the opinion of the Attorney-General permitted. This was, perhaps, sought to be accomplished by striking out the comma after 'unbound,' for whatever such striking out might be worth, so as, perhaps, to make that word limit what followed it, and not what preceded. It was reached effectually and certainly by inserting 'bound or' after the words 'printed and.' The present paragraph 512 is therefore to be construed distributively; the words 'printed and bound' referring to whatever should be bound to complete it as an article of merchandise, and 'printed' and 'manufactured' to everything else. I discover no evidence of any other change of legislative purpose so far as relates to printed books. By a literal construction of the present statute the petitioner's books seem entitled to free entry, because, having once been bound more than twenty years before importation, they comply with its precise terms, notwithstanding they may have been bound again. But it is not necessary to rely on the mere letter, as the considerations stated lead directly and naturally to a rational construction. Church of Holy Trinity v. U. S., 143 U. S. 457, 463, 12 Sup. Ct. Rep. 511. Moreover, re-binding is not binding. The latter is new and original work; while, ordinarily, the former is repairing, and usually omits one or more of the recognized steps in the latter. If the United States claims that they all actually entered into the present case, it had the burden of showing this fact to the Board of General Appraisers. But, as it is apparent that these books were bound more than twenty years before importation as books of like character are usually bound before being offered for sale, I would regard them as entitled to free entry, even though it also appeared that, in consequence of accident or ordinary use, they had needed and received repairs in all respects equal in extent to new and original binding. I adopt the conclusions of the decision of the Treasury Department of March 2, 1891 (10,800), and hold that the books are entitled to free entry. The petitioner will prepare the proper order, and, if not agreed to, will submit it to the Court for revision. For the present the order will be: Petitioner entitled to relief per order to be entered in compliance with the opinion of the Court."

EARLY BIBLES OF AMERICA.

THE REV. JOHN WRIGHT, D.D., Rector of St. Paul's Church, St. Paul, Minn., has just published, through Thomas Whitaker, New York, an interesting contribution to the bibliography of the Bibles printed during the existence of the American colonies, and of others that appeared after the colonies became the United States.

Dr. Wright begins his account with a description of the Eliot Bible, of which an edition of 1500 copies was first printed in 1661. This comprises only the New Testament in the (Algonkin) Indian language and bears the imprint of Samuel Green and Marmaduke Johnson, Cambridge. The printing of the Old Testament began in 1660 and was completed in 1663, at which time the whole Bible was issued. This issue, notwithstanding Dr. O'Callaghan's strictures, was remarkably free from errors considering the difficulties under which the work was performed. In the first place the Algonkin was a harsh language, having no equivalents for many English words; then the presses, type, ink and paper had to be imported, coming long distances and by slow means of conveyance, and lastly workmen were few, and the sources of instruction very limited. A second and last version of this Bible was printed in 1685. Of the two issues the latter is the more valuable to the philologist, although the first edition has naturally more attraction for the collector. A copy of the 1661 New Testament at the sale of the Brinley Library brought $700; the Bible of 1663 was knocked down at $1000. At an auction in 1884 a 1685 Bible brought $950, and at a sale in 1882 Mr. Quaritch bought for Mr. Kalbfleisch an Eliot Bible of 1663 for $2900. There are at present upwards of a hundred copies in existence.

The next issue of which the writer treats is the Saur Bible, printed in German, in Germantown, Pa., by Christoph Saur in 1743, and bearing the proud distinction of being the first Bible printed in America in a European language. Saur, born in Laasphe in Wittgenstein, Germany, 1693, settled in this country in 1724, and at first followed the practice of medicine. In time he turned his attention to the importation and sale of books, and finally to printing. He received the type for his Bible as a present from H. E. Luther, a type-founder of Frankfurt-on-the-Main. Mr. Saur met with great opposition in this venture. He was accused of selfish and mercenary motives; booksellers tried to undersell him by offering imported Bibles at low rate; and others raised opposition by declaring that his Bible was not a genuine rendering of the Lutheran translation; and yet, the Bible was a copy of Luther's translation as rendered in the Halle and Berlinberger editions; and the price was for the whole work "in plain binding with a clasp 18 shillings, but to the poor and needy we have no price." In 1763 Saur printed a second and in 1776 a third edition of this Bible. Saur died in 1784 leaving descendants to carry his name proudly down to the present day.

The next issue of the Bible described by Dr. Wright is the Aitken Bible, which claims to be the first printed in the English language in this country; of this, the New Testament was printed by Robert Aitken, in Philadelphia in 1777. Four editions were printed in 1778, 1779, 1780 and 1781. In 1782 he printed the Old Testament upon the recommendation of Congress.

In 1790 Matthew Carey began the publication of the first quarto edition of the Douay version of the Bible. In 1791 Isaiah Thomas, of Worcester, Mass., printed a folio and quarto edition of the Bible which were far in advance of any other publications of the same kind that had appeared in America in point of typography, excellence of paper, binding and general execution, calling from Benjamin Franklin the praise that Thomas "is the Baskerville of America." In 1797 Thomas printed a twelvemo edition of the Bible.

The first quarto Bible printed in New Jersey was that printed by Isaac Collins in Trenton, 1791. Two years later Mr. Collins printed a Bible in octavo, and in 1796 he transferred his business to New York, where it has been continued by his descendants until this day, the present representative being Charles Collins.

Other Bibles described by Dr. Wright are the first translation from the Septuagint made by Charles Thomson and printed in 1808 by Jane Aitkin, of Philadelphia; the first translation from the Peshito Syriac, made by Rev. James Murdock, and printed by Stanford & Swords, of 137 Broadway, New York, in 1851; the various curious versions printed by Benjamin Franklin; Lilly, Wait, Coleman & Holden, of Boston; Henry Oliphant, of Auburn, N. Y.; Joshua V. Himes, of Boston (a Millerite); Thomas D. Wait & Co. (to advance the views of Socinianism); and a number of others, all remarkable for their reckless and free-handed rendering of the original.

The first edition of the New Testament in Greek was printed in this country in 1800 by Isaiah Thomas, Jr., of Worcester; S. F. Bradford, of Philadelphia, printed a parallel English-Greek New Testament in 1806; George Long, 71 Pearl Street, New York, printed a New Testament in Greek in 1821; and these were rapidly followed by others.

It is impossible to follow the author further though we have not by any means exhausted the list. The volume is liberally illustrated with reproductions of the title-pages of some of the more important editions, and is sumptuously gotten up as far as paper, presswork and binding are concerned. There is also a limited large-paper edition.

JAMES C. DERBY.—OBIT.

ANOTHER of the "old guard" of the book trade has been called from the fast thinning ranks. It is some time since Mr. Derby took active part in business affairs, but not so many years back he was known to every one, and he knew all about the trade and every man in it. In 1884 he published his reminiscences of business life in "Fifty Years Among Authors, Books and Publishers," through George W. Carleton, a large volume full of history, gossip and confidences, giving a reasonably fair account of the book trade during the second and third quarters of the century. From this book, really an autobiography, we learn that Mr. Derby was born in 1818 in Little Falls, N. Y. At fifteen he was apprenticed to H. Ivison & Co., of Auburn, N. Y., to learn the bookselling business, for which he had a natural inclination. Auburn was then an incorporated village of about 5000 inhabitants. The Ivison store was well appointed with a good stock of miscellaneous books and stationery, and a bookbindery in the rear. It was at first intended that the new apprentice should learn the binder's trade also, but as he showed no aptitude whatever in that direction, and as he was particularly fitted to make a good salesman, he was soon kept wholly in the store. After about three months' trial his employers wrote his mother that he bid fair to become a useful man, and made definite arrangements with her as to terms. Young Derby was taken into Mr. Ivison's family and began his career at fifty dollars a year, with business hours from 7 in the morning until 9 at night.

After Mr. Derby had worked four years for Mr. Ivison the latter took a partner from Connecticut, with whom the young clerk did not get on, so he left in November, 1837, with an excellent recommendation, and went to work in the bookstore of Ulysses F. Doubleday, a prominent politician in the Auburn district. After about a year Mr. Ivison separated from his partner and took back Mr. Derby. In 1838 Mr. Derby visited New York and Philadelphia for the first time to lay in new stock. Those were the days of stage-coaches, and the trip from Auburn to New York occupied three days. In 1840, Mr. Doubleday having gone out of business, a good opening for another bookstore showed itself in Auburn, and, backed by his old employer, Mr. Derby organized the firm of J. C. Derby & Co., H. Ivison, Jr., becoming his partner. He began publishing in 1844. His first volume bore the title "Conference Hymns, with Tunes, Adapted to Religious Meetings for Prayers," and was compiled by Rev. Josiah Hopkins and Henry Ivison, Jr. In 1848 Mr. Derby took Norman C. Miller, one of his trusted clerks, into partnership, and the firm became Derby & Miller. Among the more important books published by them were: "The Life of Zachary Taylor," by Henry Montgomery; "Lives of Mary and Martha Washington," by Margaret C. Conkling, a sister of Roscoe Conkling; Headley's "Life of the Empress Josephine;" "Life of Rev. Adoniram Judson;"

and "Lives of the Three Mrs. Judsons;" Jenkins' "History of the War with Mexico;" "Life of George Washington," by Jared Sparks, and several important law-books, amongst them volumes of Blatchford's "United States Circuit Court Reports," now published by Baker, Voorhis & Co. After thirteen years of business success in Auburn, Mr. Derby decided to move to New York, which he did in 1853, Mr. Miller remaining in Auburn. In New York Mr. Derby formed a new partnership with Edwin Jackson, under the name of Derby & Jackson, a firm that also had a prosperous career until 1861, when they discontinued business.

In 1862 he again came together with Norman C. Miller, under the firm-name of Derby & Miller, and once more published some very successful works, among which were Raymond's "Life of Lincoln," Headley's "Life of Grant," Goodrich's "Tribute-Book," and the engraving of Carpenter's painting of the Emancipation Proclamation. After some years they again separated, Mr. Miller having become interested in the express business and also in printing enterprises.

Mr. Derby had two brothers also in the book business who were very successful. These men trace their success and character to their mother, who was a woman of strong character and moulding influence. She wrote her sons the following letter in 1844, advising them strongly never to print, publish or even sell any book that might exert pernicious influence, and Mr. Derby has said: "I can confidently say that in the long and varied experience of my brothers and myself, not a single volume has ever been sold of a doubtful tendency."

A MOTHER'S ADVICE TO HER CHILDREN—BOOKSELLERS— ON THE PURCHASING AND VENDING PERNICIOUS BOOKS.

As you are soon going on your accustomed journey, I will ask you once more to consider my plea regarding the policy and character of some portion of your business. The selecting of books for a reading community is a peculiar responsibility; and if the matter therein contained be good in its wholesale and retail consequences, it will rise up for you; if bad, against you, even here in this partly Christianized America.

You now stand upon the pivot of general improvement in almost everything, and it is your special province to go forward in this particular branch of progression, provided your religious principles, high moral character and self-denial be such as should be worthy the patronage and confidence of the world, and more especially your own conscience.

Consider now, I pray you, and take the choice whether you will be men who greatly improve and exalt the moral faculties and unsubdued hearts of this intelligent but inconsistent people, whose God and kingdom should not be of this world, or as one regardless, principally, of all that is, has been, and will be said, but who is in favor of many good operations, and help to sustain and encourage orthodox institutions, yet at the same time are trafficking the disgusting, heart-sickening literature of moral corruption, which of its own inherent nature undermines more or less the very groundwork of those blessed institutions which you otherwise help and wish to have supported, and which are our own individual as well as national safety, and the strength and hope of perpetual happiness—strange contradiction! And is this all for money? Can it be? Think of the impolicy and sin of an impure press and those who sustain it!

I intend to be brief but plain, and how can I let you alone as long as a mother's blood runs in my veins and my heart is constrained by the love of Christ to act for the good of souls?

The mind of man is a soil that God has made highly productive of greatness and goodness, provided it be beneath the refreshing showers of healthful and exalting influences; and it is your peculiar privilege to administer in the books you put into their hands such influences to fallen and rebellious man. . . . I would therefore have you come out on the right and on the safe side, and to extend your usefulness, make your principles publicly known and your reasons for them, then your names may be written in letters of gold as the first booksellers resolved to put nothing but that which is good and healthful upon your shelves and counters.

Your affectionate mother,
LEZZETTA DERBY.

For a number of years Mr. Derby was manager of the subscription department of D. Appleton & Co. At Auburn Derby & Miller published the first subscription-book west of New York City—Goodrich's "History of All Nations."

For the past few years Mr. Derby has led a very retired life, although still the nominal head of Derby & Miller, 149 Church Street, N. Y. The old partners had once more organized their firm at the special request of Frederick W. Seward for the express purpose of bringing out the biography of his father, William H. Seward, a work in three volumes, which appeared in the summer of 1891.

Mr. Derby died at the home of his daughter in Brooklyn on Thursday, September 22. He was a member of the Century Club, and also held several public positions of trust. In 1865 he was appointed United States General Agent of the Paris Exposition of 1867, and worked hard to make the American display representative.

COPYRIGHT IN CANADA.

ACCORDING to a communication from Ottawa, dated September 23, a despatch has been received from London from the Secretary of State for the Colonies stating that the imperial authorities confirm the position taken by the Canadian Government in declining to grant copyright to the citizens of the United States in the terms of Mr. Blaine's contention, which was based upon the verbal assurance of Lord Salisbury that they would be entitled to copyright in all of Her Majesty's dominions, overlooking the fact that the Canadian statute confers that right only upon citizens of a country having a copyright treaty with Great Britain. The fact that no such treaty exists is the backbone of the Canadian contention.

ENGLISH LITERARY SWINDLERS.

THE trial of Sir Gilbert Edward Campbell and others associated with him in a series of frauds on persons ambitious for literary fame, terminated on September 27, in London, at the Old Bailey, in a verdict of guilty. Sir Gilbert Edward Campbell was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment at hard labor, he appearing on the evidence to have been a guilty stool-pigeon rather than a principal in the fraudulent schemes; William James Morgan, who was the chief in forming the various fraudulent societies and obtaining money from literary aspirants, was sentenced to eight years' penal servitude; James Sidney Tomkins, who was Morgan's right-hand man in the "International Society of Literature and Art," was sentenced to five years' penal servitude; William Nathan Steadman, one of the lesser conspirators, received a sentence of fifteen months at hard labor; David William Tolmie, six months, and Charles Montague Clarke, four months. The schemes of the conspirators have been explained in the testimony as given by several witnesses.

They obtained various sums of money from clergymen, farmers, and even domestic servants upon the pretext, never fulfilled, of publishing poems and other productions, or of giving them literary employment. The sums amounted to considerable in the aggregate, and were divided between the swindlers.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

THE NEWSDEALERS' AND BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

CHARLES B. SWIFT, Chairman,
Bullitt Building, PHILADELPHIA, PA.
Executive Committee.

CHARLES B. SWIFT, PHILADELPHIA, PA., Chairman.
JAMES G. McMURRAY, NEW YORK.
THOMAS LUNT, BROOKLYN, N. Y.
J. BRENNAN, NEW YORK CITY.
E. C. RAHME, PHILADELPHIA, PA.,

To the Newsdealers and Booksellers of the United States:

THE National Newsdealers' and Booksellers' Association will hold their next annual conference in the city of Philadelphia, October 11, 12 and 13, 1892.

The committee in charge makes an earnest appeal to all organized bodies in the United States to send delegates to the above-mentioned conference. The following subjects will be thoroughly discussed and acted upon:

1. The revision of the postal laws enabling dealers to send books at pound rates.
2. The cutting of prices by publishing houses who retail.
3. The cutting of prices by dry-goods houses.
4. The cutting of prices by publishers to jobbers, thus enabling one jobber to undersell another.
5. The licensing of all newsdealers and booksellers.
6. The canvassing by publishers of magazines for yearly subscriptions.

Also many other abuses appertaining to the trade.

In any town or city where a union exists the union shall be the medium in transactions with the National Association. It shall pay fifteen cents per capita fees for each member, and shall have the right to elect one delegate for every twenty members, to represent them at all future national conventions. In places where no union exists, any newsdealer, bookseller or stationer who is engaged in business for himself can become a member of the National Association by paying the sum of one dollar.

It is hoped that by this means a bond of brotherhood will be established, which will bring into the association every one engaged in this important branch of business.

There will also be a publishers' exhibit held in the convention hall during the session, which will last for three days. Publishers will be invited to send their display without any cost save transportation.

Join at once, and help the good work along.

Send by postal note, post-office order, check or currency, to

SOLD HIS SONGS TWICE OVER.

UP to the age of twenty-four Joseph P. Skelly, says the New York Sun, was a respectable plumber. Then he took to writing sentimental songs. Since he began he has written more than fifty songs and sold considerably more than he has written. This he accomplished by selling one song two or three times to different publishers, and it finally got him into trouble.

After having established himself in the favor of a certain class of the musical public by such songs as "Poor Little Chick-a-dee-dee," "Where Have You Seen Little Birdie?" "Birdie Singing in the Rain" and "When the Birdies Nest Again," Skelly found a ready market for his music, and got along pretty well. It was when he branched off from the birdies and attempted to handle such themes as "Be Kind to Your Father When He's Old," "Safe to My Heart Again" and "I'm Coming Back Again, Eileen," that his fate overtook him. He didn't get enough for these from a single publisher to reward him for his trouble, so, after selling "Safe to My Heart Again" to Harding, the Bowery (New York) publisher, for $10 on January 27, five days later he sold the same song to Louis Berge, of 525½ Sixth Avenue, New York, and a week after that got another $10 for it from the Chicago Music Publishing Company. Harding and Berge having, as they supposed, the exclusive right to the song, did not hurry about having it copyrighted, and when, a short time ago, Berge attempted to do so he found a copyright had been secured three days before by the Chicago company. It is said that Skelly has swindled other publishers in the same manner. Berge had Skelly arrested, and in the Jefferson Market Court, New York, on the 27th ult., he was held in $300 bail for trial.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

J. ASHBY-STERRY, who is the London correspondent of The Book-Buyer, is reported to be the original of George Meredith's Evan Harrington.

MRS. TAYLOR, the widow of Bayard Taylor, has written a clever cook-book, which is to be brought out immediately. A large portion of it appeared in the columns of the Sunday [N. Y.] Tribune.

It is now confidently predicted that Lord Tennyson's new play will be published before Christmas, but nothing has been settled as to whether it will be performed before it is issued in book form.

It has been found impossible to get Mr. Edison to devote the necessary time to complete the story for which Mr. S. S. McClure had arranged terms with him, and the contract has therefore been rescinded.

THE letters of Adrienne Lecouvreur, the actress, have lately been for the first time collected and edited. Explanatory and illustrative notes, taken from unpublished archives of the Comédie Française, have been added.

HANS S. BEATTIE, ex-Street-Cleaning Commissioner of New York City, has surprised his old political friends by blossoming out as an author. "Joshua Wray" is the name of Mr. Beattie's story, and it has to do with philosophy and religion. It has just been published by the United States Book Co.

THOMAS HARDY writes to The Critic, in reply to complaints that have reached him to the effect that "even in the revised and enlarged American edition of 'Tess of the D'Urbervilles' I have thought fit to suppress the explanatory preface which appears in all the English editions," that he is now taking measures to attach to the American edition both the original preface and a new preface which is in preparation for the fifth English edition. He adds in explanation that "the necessity for (at least) simultaneous publication in America of English books, to secure copyright, renders it almost impossible that the latest addenda of an author should be incorporated in the foreign imprint. Could even a fortnight's grace be allowed, final touches, given just before going to press on this side, would not be excluded from American copies as they now are in so many cases."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE following has been sent out by the office of The Cosmopolitan: "Mr. Howells will begin in the November Cosmopolitan, a department under the attractive title: 'A Traveller from Altruria.' Those who have seen the first two papers think they will equal in interest and in their wide appeal to all classes, the Breakfast Table Papers of Dr. Holmes. In order to give the necessary time to this work, Mr. Howells has turned over the detail editorial work to Mr. Walker."

MR. TILDEN is the subject of a remarkably interesting paper in the October Atlantic Monthly, by James C. Carter, a distinguished lawyer of New York, who knew Mr. Tilden intimately, and who, though differing from him in politics, found him so great and wise a man that he writes of him with a noble enthusiasm. Alexander Brown, author of the important work, "The Genesis of the United States," also contributes a valuable historical article on "The English Occupancy of North America" to this issue of The Atlantic.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ABINGDON, VA.—George R. Barr, of Geo. R. Barr & Co., booksellers and stationers, is dead.

BAXTER SPRINGS, KAN.—F. H. Hoose has bought the bookstore recently sold by C. W. Daniels.

BURNET, TEXAS.—J. F. Cook has again engaged in the book and stationery business.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Limbach & Wolter, 211 Wabash Ave. (Room 56), are sole agents in this country for P. Thelen, the well-known music publisher of Berlin. They will have a catalogue ready shortly.

CHICAGO, ILL.—F. A. K. Moore has entered into an engagement to travel in Northern Iowa for C. M. Barnes. S. D. Siler, formerly of Siler Book and Stationery Co., Birmingham, Ala., has also entered the service of Mr. Barnes to travel in the South.

CINCINNATI, O.—A combination of music publishing and musical instrument manufacturers has been consummated in this city. The capital of the interests involved will reach, it is claimed, $5,000,000. The interests involved are the John Church Company, of Cincinnati and New York; the Everett Piano Company, of Boston; Root & Sons Music Company, of Chicago; the Harvard Piano Company, of Boston, and the Royal Manufacturing Company, of Cincinnati. These are to be combined under one management. The men in the new venture are William N. Hobart, Edward Rawson, A. Howard Hinkle, Frank A. Lee and William Hooper. The John Church Company publishes music and music-books, deals in pianos, organs and all kinds of music and imports musical merchandise.

GRAND FORKS, N. D.—F. W. Iddings Book and Stationery Co. succeed F. W. Iddings.

LAKE CITY, FLA.—The report that S. B. Thompson, bookseller and stationer, had been sold out by the sheriff is erroneous. It appears that about two years ago he sought to establish a millinery department in his business and bought stock of a Baltimore house. Part of the stock was unsalable, being adapted for a more northern climate, and did not meet the requirement of the order given. Mr. Thompson offered to return the goods and pay losses and expenses, but the seller declined this proposition and sued for the full bill. Judgment was entered against Mr. Thompson for about $800 and the sheriff levied on part of his stock, but the judgment was satisfied and no sale took place. Mr. Thompson established his business in 1884, has built up a good trade, was never sued before and proposes to pay for his goods according to agreement. He is well spoken of by his neighbors.

MUSKOGEE, INDIAN TER.—P. M. Smith & Co., booksellers and stationers, have sold out.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—Antonello R. Andrews has removed his "Olde Book Shoppe" from City Market to 176 Temple, directly opposite William Neely's. He will continue as before to deal in second-hand books, making a specialty of local histories and rare books. Mr. Andrews' ambition is to run his store on lines as nearly like the old Archway of Boston as possible. He asks for new catalogues.

NEW YORK CITY.—Funk & Wagnalls Co. have temporary headquarters at 739 Broadway, second floor, pending repairs in their store at Astor Place.

NEW YORK CITY.—The creditors of W. J. Kelly, publisher, who was burned out August 27, held a meeting at the office of the Stationers' Board of Trade last Friday afternoon. Mr. Kelly presented his report, and it is understood that he will commence business again after the holidays.

NEW YORK CITY.—The schedules of James J. McCarthy and Clarence E. Reed, composing the firm of McCarthy & Co., recently assigned, show liabilities $13,351.10; nominal assets $10,500.37, and actual assets of $7749.61.

NEW YORK CITY.—The New York Book Depository, of 17 Clinton Place, of which John Von Glahn has been appointed receiver in the suit of Ralph A. Young, was carried on under the management of Emanuel Glaeser, the President, who started the business ten years ago and turned it into a stock company in January, 1890, with a capital stock of $20,000.

SALINA, KANSAS.—The Normal Bookstore has been opened with J. F. Barwick as manager.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—James Richardson, bookseller and stationer, has filed a voluntary petition of insolvency.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—The book and the wallpaper departments of W. F. Adams Co. have been separated and the latter organized under the name of "The Old Corner Wall-Paper Co." Mr. Adams will now devote his entire time to the Old Corner Book Store which for almost three score years has been the leading book store in the Connecticut Valley.

SPRINGFIELD, O.—Jno. S. Barr, of Jno. S. Barr & Co., booksellers, is dead.

TACOMA, WASH.—Oscar Nuhn, bookseller, has made an assignment.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

The Electrical World will publish in an early issue a list of the best indexes to electrical literature, which should, in the absence of a systematic bibliography of the subject, be useful to many who have occasion to consult the voluminous and daily growing mass of literature devoted to electrical science. This list will comprise many of the indexes which have heretofore been scattered through periodicals, etc., and it will be made as complete as is practicable.

DR. LIPSIUS, the great German theologian, who died at Jena, August 19, was the possessor of a most valuable theological library containing many very rare books and complete sets of periodicals. It was his wish that this collection of books should go to some one library. A catalogue is now being made. Any communications on the subject should be addressed to Professor Baumgarten, at Jena, Germany.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

THE "Bibliographical Contributions" issued under the editorship of Justin Winsor by the Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass. (No. 45), contains a valuable collection of "Notes on Special Collections in American Libraries," prepared by William Coolidge Lane and Charles Knowles Bolton, both connected with the library. The list is especially valuable to booksellers dealing in special lines of literature. (82 p. 8°.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

F. A. DAVIS & Co. have in preparation the "Biography of Dr. D. Hayes Agnew," the celebrated surgeon, not of Dr. H. Agnew, the oculist, as was inadvertently stated in our last issue.

THE FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just issued "James Gilmour of Mongolia," in which the life of this untiring missionary is compiled from his letters and diaries by Richard Lovett; and "The Story of Uganda and the Victory of the Victoria Nyanza Mission," by Sarah Geraldine Stock.

At a hearing of the case of the C. F. Jewett Publishing Co. against Gen. Benj. F. Butler for breach of contract, Mr. A. M. Thayer, publisher of "Butler's Book," is reported to have said that although 30,000 copies had been sold, his firm must still make about $10,000 to cover its expenses.

A BOOKSELLER in one of his recent catalogues, under a lot of "Irvingiana, N. Y., 1860," makes the following note: "An original poem by Irving was first published in this volume." If our information is correct the bookseller in question will find this poem in "The New York Book of Poetry," issued in New York in 1837.

THE only complete and authentic life of ex-President Cleveland yet written has just been published in Cassell's Sunshine Series. The author is George F. Parker, editor of "The Writings and Speeches of Grover Cleveland," published by the Cassell Publishing Co.; and he has had the authorization of Mr. Cleveland in his work. There will be included in the book a literary estimate of the ex-President by R. W. Gilder, and a review of his legal career by his late partner, W. S. Bissell, of Buffalo.

GINN & Co. will publish at once a series of papers on the study of children in nursery and kindergarten schools, entitled "The Place of the Story in Early Education and other essays," by Sara E. Wiltse, with an introductory note by President G. Stanley Hall. In November they will publish in the International Modern Language Series, "La Cigale chez les Fourmis," comédie en un acte, par Legouvé et Labiche, with English notes by Alphonse N. van Daell, Professor of Modern Languages in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

MARCH BROS., Lebanon, Ohio, are the publishers of all the books entered under G. P. Putnam's Sons in the Fall Announcement Number of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, with the exception of "Manual of Physics," by Wm. Peddie, which is rightly credited to the Putnams. The publications of the March Brothers are: the new volumes in the Science Training Series; and in the Manual Training Series, MacLeod's "Practical Drill Problems"; "A Year with Emerson, Lowell and Holmes," by Miss May Mackintosh; and "Shedd's Special Day Exercises."

The North American Review has sued the New York Telegram for an alleged violation of the copyright laws in republishing without permission an article which appeared in the October number of the Review from the pen of William E. Gladstone, entitled "A Vindication of Home Rule." Judge Lacombe granted a temporary injunction. Under the law if the violation is proved against the Telegram its proprietor will be liable in damages to the extent of $1 for every copy of the paper containing the article. In the Telegram's case this, it is said, would be about $16,500.

CHARLES E. MERRILL & Co. will publish, early in October, "Cameos from Ruskin," by Miss Mary E. Cardwill. The purpose of the book which consists of extracts from Mr. Ruskin's works, is to illustrate the fundamental principle of all his criticism—that art is inseparably connected with character and conduct or morality, and that all great art rests upon the basis of what is intrinsically good. Of the authorized (Brantwood) edition they will also publish, in October, "Ruskin's Lectures on Architecture and Painting," with a special introduction by Prof. Charles Eliot Norton.

F. J. SCHULTE, Chicago, is publishing fast-selling books with great rapidity. Among his latest announcements is "Arma's and Others," a collection of three tales by Mrs. Lindon W. Bates, bearing the separate titles "Winged Victory," a story of reincarnation; "Taken in at Oare's," a character-study of life in the far West; and "A Venetian Payment," a romance of love, intrigue and society. This active publisher has just issued a Norwegian translation of his successful book "Cæsar's Column," by Ignatius Donnelly, and during the winter will also bring out the book in German under the title "Weltuntergang."

JOHN G. WHITTIER bequeathed to Lucy Larcom the copyrights of "Child Life," "Child Life in Prose" and "Songs of Three Centuries," besides $500. The copyrights of his other writings are placed in the hands of executors, the income to be divided among certain of his heirs. His manuscripts, letters and papers were entrusted to Samuel T. Pickard, of Portland, Me. Referring to this legacy the poet requests "all who have letters of mine to refrain from publishing them, unless with his [Pickard's] consent." It is understood that Mr. Pickard has undertaken to write a biography of Whittier, in which work he will be assisted by Mr. Chase, of Providence.

WILLIAM HEINEMANN, of London, will publish shortly a novel by Edmund Gosse, entitled "The Secret of Narcisse."

SWAN SONNENSCHN & Co. announce a new edition of the translation, by George Eliot, of Strauss' "Life of Christ," with an introduction by Prof. Otto Pfeleiderer, of Berlin.

ANDREW W. TIER, of the Leadenhall Press, London, is engaged on a little work on horn-books, and desires it to be known that he will be grateful for references to material and examples.

It is said that the second half of the second volume of the late Prof. B. Ten Brink's "Geschichte der Englischen Literatur" will be published this month, and that his literary remains contain materials for two more volumes.

THE Railway Automatic Library Company has had a short career and by no means a prosperous one, and is now about to be wound up; and for the present, at all events, railway passengers in Great Britain will have to do without their automatically-supplied course of reading.

THE death is announced at Frankfort-on-the-Main, of Dr. Edward Schubert, owner of the largest Paracelsus library in the world. He devoted many years of his life to works on Paracelsus and pharmaceutical alchemy, and studiously collected the literary material relating to these subjects. His valuable collection is to be sold, en bloc, if possible.

BLACKWOOD & SONS, London, have just ready an interesting addition to the literature of the turf in a work, entitled "The Racing Life of Lord George Bentinck, M.P.," written by John Kent, private trainer to the Goodwood stable, and edited by Francis Lawley. The book gives a complete account of the Goodwood stable, as well as a history of the turf during Lord George's time, and portraits of some celebrated sporting personages, besides other illustrations.

DAVID NUTT will publish at once the first volume of the Rev. W. E. Addis' new translation of the documents of the Hexateuch chronologically arranged. This will comprise the documents commonly known as Iahvistic and Elohist, the combination of which forms the oldest book of Hebrew history. The second volume, to appear, it is hoped, next year, will comprise the Deuteronomist and the Priestly Writer. Prof. Kuno Meyer's edition of the "Vision of MacConglinne" is also ready for issue. The two versions of the Irish text are printed for the first time; Hennessy's translation has been thoroughly revised and corrected, and the philological importance of the twelfth-century text is brought out by elaborate notes and glossary. Prof. W. Wollner, of Leipzig, contributes an introduction, dealing with the composition, origin and authorship of the tale.

PICK-UPS.

"I READ Schopenhauer in German." "Why, I never knew you understood German?" "I don't. But Schopenhauer is no harder to understand in the original than in English."—Harper's Bazar.

A NEW KIND.—McCommick (in reading-room of the Manhattan Athletic): What book is that you are reading? Fellow Member: A "History of Famous Prize-fights." McCommick: Must be a sort of scrap-book.—The Club.

VERY LIKELY.—"They say he is a literary man, and perhaps he is. He talks rapidly, but upon my word, I can't make head or tail of what he talks about." "Ha! Perhaps he is a magazine poet!"—New York Press.

FRAPPANT.—Exeter: What do you read to keep cool this weather? Dexeter: The love letters of my last year's Boston girl. They simply frappé my blood.—Town Topics.

UNWORTHY HIS NOTICE.—"James," said Mr. Newrox, "you can take that there 'Paradise Lost' down to the second-hand store and sell it for what you can get. Feller told me to-day that the man that wrote it didn't make as much as $100 out of it."—Indianapolis Journal.

THE enclosed facetious advertisement of "Books Wanted" deserves, says a correspondent, to be placed on record in your columns: H. H. Hartley, second-hand bookseller, will give good prices for copies of the following books: "The Art of Turning by Handel," "John Knox on Death's Door," "Malthus's Attack on Infantry," "Macadam's Views in Rhodes," "Pygmalion, by Lord Bacon," "Boyle on Steam," and "Lamb's Recollections of Suet."—Book-Shop.

QUATRAIN.

BY JOHN KENDRICK BANGS.

SOME years ago I wrote a single joke:
'Twas mild—not very sharp—but sunny.
'Twas printed, and quite famous I awoke;
An error in the types had made it funny.
—The Independent.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

SOMETHING IMPORTANT.NOW READY.A New (Tenth) Edition, Author's Last Revision,

OF THE

Book on the Physician Himself,

AND

Things that Concern His Reputation and Success,

BY

D. W. CATHELL, M.D., Baltimore, Md.

The author's final revision of this, one of the most useful, successful and popular medical books ever published, is now ready for delivery.

It has been wisely and carefully revised throughout. The well-known charming style of the author is preserved intact, while the practical value of the book is truly enhanced by the addition of much of the author's gathered wisdom not introduced into any previous edition. The volume has been brought to perfection, as far as human effort can achieve, and though enlarged to 350 Royal Octavo pages the price has not been increased.

Bound in Extra Cloth, - - - - - $2.00 net.

EVERY DEALER SHOULD ORDER A SUPPLY OF THIS FAMOUS BOOK AT ONCE.

*READY EARLY IN OCTOBER.The New Pocket Medical Dictionary.

Compiled from the latest authorities, and containing words recently introduced into medicine; also Addenda of Abbreviations, Affixes, List of Diseases known by proper names, List of Poisons and their Antidotes, etc., etc.

By DAVID BRADEN KYLE, M.D.,

Assistant Demonstrator of Pathology and Instructor in Clinical Microscopy at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia; Visiting Physician to Philadelphia Home for Incurables; Associate Editor of the "Annual of the Universal Medical Sciences."

This compact and complete little dictionary will be a thing of beauty as well as of use. It will be neatly printed on extra thin, but opaque and durable paper, with red marginal lines on every page, thus bringing out the type clear and distinct. In strong, flexible leather binding. Size, $2\frac{5}{8} \times 5\frac{1}{4}$ inches, easily fitting in the vest-pocket.

Price, - - - - - 75 cents net.

READY OCTOBER 8th.

A New Book by Mrs. Burnett.

Giovanni and the Other.

CHILDREN WHO HAVE MADE STORIES.

BY Mrs. FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT. With nine full-page illustrations by Reginald B. Birch. Uniform with "Fauntleroy," "Sara Crewe" and "Little Saint Elizabeth." Square 8vo, $1.50.

A new book by Mrs. Burnett is sure of a wide and cordial welcome, particularly when it introduces to the public several more of those charming little heroes and heroines about whom the author writes so delightfully. Mrs. Burnett has become justly celebrated as a delineator of child life; and "Giovanni" bids fair to win the title of being her best work, rivaling if not surpassing the popularity of her famous "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

CHRISTMAS!

The most representative of the Christmas issues, having no special interests to represent, giving best value to both dealers and advertisers, and out first, is the Christmas issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. The cover will be new, tasteful and taking.

As usual, special articles on leading books, the finest specimen illustrations from others, full descriptive summary of new books and stationery novelties, reference price-lists covering the ILLUSTRATED WORKS, BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG, and other CHOICE BOOKS published during 1892, etc.

Furnished at the earliest possible date, orders recorded in order of receipt. As paper is made for it, we need prompt word. Prices are put below cost of manufacture, to insure the widest circulation to advertising.

To avoid delay it is absolutely necessary that copy for imprint, together with full directions for forwarding, should accompany the order. All packages sent by express unpaid, unless other shipping directions are given.

Lovell, Coryell & Company

NOW HAVE READY:

Speeches of Benjamin Harrison.

Complete. With his Letter of Acceptance. Compiled by CHARLES HEDGES. With portrait. Octavo, limp cloth, gilt, 75 cents; paper, 50 cents.

"This work should prove an important factor in the Presidential Campaign. If the contest, indeed, were to be decided alone by the personal qualifications of the candidates, this remarkable collection of addresses would constitute an irresistible party appeal. Compared with the volume of speeches of Mr. Cleveland, which Mr. Parker recently compiled, it exhibits superiority at every point."—Philadelphia Press.

Ardath.

The Story of a Dead Self. By MARIE CORELLI, author of "The Soul of Lilith," "Wormwood," etc. 12mo, cloth, gilt, $1.00; paper, 50 cents. "Ardath" is undoubtedly one of Marie Corelli's strongest creations. It is written in a flowing and graceful style, is full of oriental imagery and soaring fancies, and will delight the great number of readers who revel in the literature of the unknowable.

The White Feather.

By TASMA, author of "Uncle Piper of Piper's Hill," "A Sydney Sovereign," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

All readers of current fiction will recall the unmistakable sensation which occurred upon the publication of Tasma's novel, "Uncle Piper of Piper's Hill." The most recent work of the distinguished author is entitled "The White Feather," a novel that is peculiarly fascinating, written as it is in that pleasing style to which the author has accustomed her readers.

RECENTLY ISSUED:

An Erring Woman's Love.

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX, author of "Poems of Pleasure," "Maurine," "Poems of Passion," etc. Containing sixteen full-page illustrations and frontispiece portrait of author. Exquisitely bound. Square quarto, cloth, full gilt, $2.50; 12mo, cloth, gilt, with portrait, $1.00.

"These poems are full of the first essential to good work, which is sympathy, the power to identify one's self with one's subject; its dénouement is original and suggestive in the highest degree. . . . The large edition is, by all odds, the choicest specimen of book-making which the enterprising publishers have sent forth."—Boston Times.

THE WORKS OF

H. B. PHILBROOK

The most important publications of the century.

What and Where Is God?

480 pages, cloth, $1.50.

"The author sees in the electrical current the essentials of God and the originating force of man; explains the presence and movement of mind and matter, the origin and distribution of species, the cause of phenomena of physical science and the operations of the solar system. In brief, the work is an attempt to solve the problem of universal creation."—Publishers' Weekly.

Work of Electricity in Nature.

188 two-column pages, cloth, $1.50.

"A series of articles published originally in the 'Problems of Nature,' which aim to prove that electricity is as main force of human existence. Each paper considers separate functions of this science. It is viewed also in its relations to the solar system, the earth, plants and animals."—Publishers' Weekly.

Astronomy.

Nebulæ Hypothesis completed. Construction of the Solar System. Pamphlet, cloth, 20 cents.

OCCULT AND METAPHYSICAL
PUBLICATIONS,

HAVE JUST PUBLISHED:

A POWERFUL NOVEL.

The Woman Who Dares.

By URSULA N. GESTEFELD, author of "The Prodigal Son," "The Popular Craze," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25.

"The Woman Who Dares" is a novel dealing with the sexual rights of woman in the marital relation. A woman's right to her own person, the author holds, is as inviolate in the married as in the single state. The book sounds another note of warning in this day of struggle for adjustment of opposing forces, and marks the entrance of another factor—which has to be reckoned with—upon the field of action.

The Island of Fantasy.

By FERGUS HUME, author of "Madam Midas," "The Piccadilly Puzzle," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"This novel is a long way in advance of anything Mr. Fergus Hume has hitherto attempted. His style has greatly improved; his conceptions are really noble, if not great."—London Academy.

"The Island of Fantasy" is not merely an exciting romance, but a sufficiently well-studied work with a decided evidence of poetic feeling. . . . A rousing adventure story."—Athenæum.

Philosophical Suggestions.

By BROTHER FREDERICK. With illustrative diagrams. 12mo, leatherette, 50 cents.

An argument based upon logical propositions which outlines the relation and consequence of cause and effect. Applied to God and man, it shows his final reconciliation with God by means of the knowledge gained through experience which brings understanding.

RECENT ISSUES:

The New Rector.

By STANLEY WEYMAN. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"The narrative is well written, the interest unflagging the ensemble is satisfactory, and the dénouement clearly wrought out, leaving nothing to be desired."—The Churchman.

Margery of Quether.

By S. BARING-GOULD, author of "Urith," "John Her-ring," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"A story cast on strong lines, containing dramatic possibilities, vivid and sympathetic descriptions of nature, and a wealth of ingenious imagery."—The Speaker, London.

NEW BOOKS PUBLISHED BY

Charles L. Webster & Co.

Paddles and Politics Down the Danube.

By POULTNEY BIGELOW. With illustrations by the author. (Fiction, Fact and Fancy Series.) Stamped cloth, gilt titles, 75 cents.

"He (Mr. Bigelow) has given a lively description of a canoe voyage down an historic river, and of the quaint and picturesque phases of civilization along its banks."—Boston Advertiser.

"The results of Mr. Bigelow's keen and trained power of observation are described in this volume in graceful style."—The New York Observer.

Writings of Christopher Columbus.

Edited with an introduction, by PAUL LEICESTER FORD. (Fiction, Fact and Fancy Series.) Stamped cloth, gilt titles, 12mo, 256 pages, with portrait frontispiece, 75 cents.

Mr. Ford has for the first time collected in one handy volume those letters and other documents, written by Christopher Columbus, which describe his experiences in the discovery and occupation of the New World. Besides his letters to Ferdinand and Isabella, and to various friends, the volume includes the Deed of Entail, Will, and so-called "Privileges" of Columbus. An excellent opportunity is thus presented for studying the beginnings of America from original sources.

"Some of this matter is more curious than luminous, but it is all in some degree illustrative of the interesting character behind the words, and offers in brief space a decidedly valuable commentary on one of the most interesting and notable characters in the history of the world."—Brooklyn Times.

Autobiographia; or, The Story of a Life.

By WALT WHITMAN. (Fiction, Fact and Fancy Series.) Stamped cloth, etc., 206 pages, with view of Whitman's home at Camden, 75 cents. Ready, October 1.

These selections from the bulk of the poet's prose writings have been made by Arthur Stedman, and are so arranged as to give a consecutive account of Mr. Whitman's career in the latter's own picturesque language. The "Autobiographia" is published as a companion volume to "Selected Poems," and, like that book, was authorized by the poet shortly before his death.

UNITED STATES BOOK COMPANY

HAVE JUST PUBLISHED:

"A Powerful Romance."

Joshua Wray.

A Novel. By HANS STEVENSON BEATTIE. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

In this new novel, New York's Ex-Street Commissioner, Hans Stevenson Beattie, has given evidence of literary ability of no common order. In certain passages his analysis of philosophical thought is marvellous. A powerful element of romance enters into the work, and those portions pertaining to metaphysical discussion are delightfully interwoven with the story itself.

Mr. Witt's Widow.

A Frivolous Tale. By ANTHONY HOPE, author of "Father Stafford," "A Man of Mark," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"Mr. Witt's Widow" is, in truth, a brilliant little tale. This commendation is justified by a style at once easy and terse, by the wit of the dialogue, and by the good humor of the satire."—London Times.

NOW IN ITS SECOND EDITION.

Diana:

The History of a Great Mistake. By Mrs. OLIPHANT, author of "The Perpetual Curate," "The Open Door," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"The style is very smooth and finished, the story is interesting, and the characters are well drawn."—Boston Times.

New Illustrated Holiday Gift-Books.

Genoa, the Superb.

THE CITY OF COLUMBUS. By VIRGINIA W. JOHNSON, author of "The Lily of the Arno," etc. Uniform in style with "The Lily of the Arno," which met with such marked success last year. The approaching Columbian Exposition (World's Fair) at Chicago has awakened a great interest in all places associated with the life of Columbus, and this city, his birthplace, is not only interesting from its historical associations, but is remarkable for the beauty of its parks, palaces and cathedrals of modern architecture. Genoa is at the present time the most prosperous city of Italy, and attractive alike to tourist and historian. Illustrated with photogravures.

Zenobia.

QUEEN OF PALMYRA. By WILLIAM WARE, author of "Aurelian," "Julian," etc. A new edition of this standard work set from new, large type, and fully illustrated with half-tone plates from photogravures taken in Palmyra, showing the ruins of that splendid civilization which was at its zenith nearly two thousand years ago.

1 vol., crown 8vo, cloth gilt..... $2.50

The Vicar of Wakefield. (Exquisite Series.) EDITION JOUAUST.

By OLIVER GOLDSMITH. The most beautiful edition of this gem of English literature ever made. It is illustrated with dainty etchings by the great French Artist, Ad. Lalauze, together with artistic head and tail pieces and initials. The page is small, with clear, new type, and is printed on fine laid paper. The binding is half genuine parchment and India silk. This edition is modelled from that issued in French by the Paris publisher, Jouaust, whose reputation for artistic bookmaking is so great that he is known in Europe as the modern Elzevir.
